COBWEB EVENING

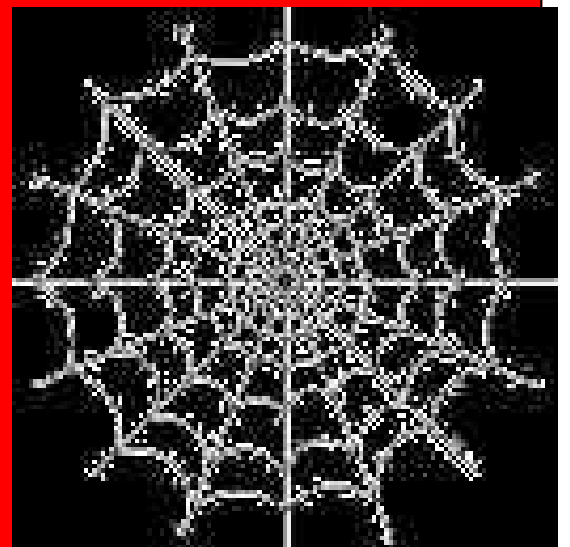

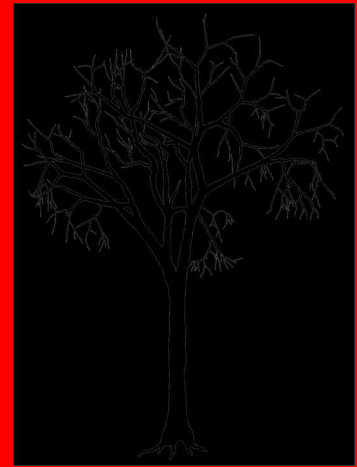

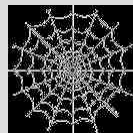

On Saturday evening,
I play with my Lego,
But one evening
I went straight outside
In to the garden.
I saw fine lace, tangled
To each wobbly, nobbly tree.
Spiders with hard working bodies,
Spin huge, gigantic webs,
To dress the trees

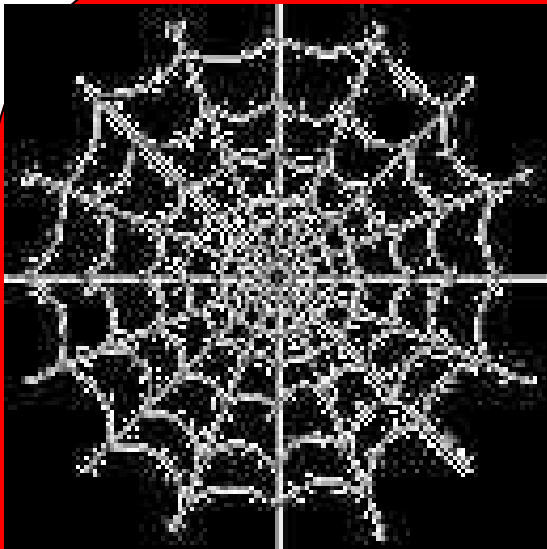

By Logan Eden

COBWEB AFTERNOON

On Wednesday afternoon,
We have lunch and do phonics,
But on that Wednesday afternoon,
We went straight outside.
Cobwebs hung on sticky, gooey branches
And on huge bushes.
They dressed the trees
Like a mamma's tutu
that looked like tree trunk spirals.
Remember!
Never break a spider's web because
They work day and night
To make their homes and dress the trees.

By Lucas Heer

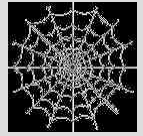

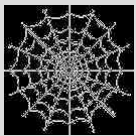

COBWEB AFTERNOON

On Friday afternoon
We do PSHE and Science
But one afternoon
We dashed to the playground, field and saw
Tangled cobwebs.
Cold, lacy, loose cobwebs.
The spider's legs worked and worked
So in the end the cobwebs were hanging.

By Reuben Mangat

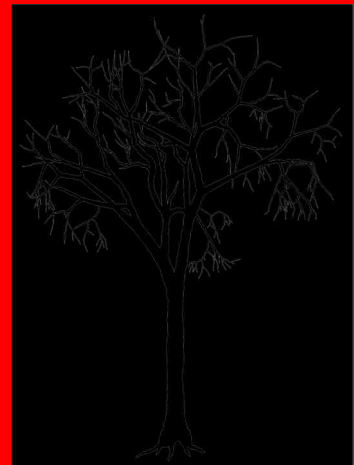

COBWEB AFTERNOON

On Friday mornings,
We do painting and art
But on this Friday
We saw cobwebs hung everywhere in the forest.
When we went home we made our own cobwebs
And hung them up.
The scary, spooky spiders
Hang in my bedroom!

If your child is going to the toilet a lot, has increased thirst, is more tired than usual or is losing weight, it could be a sign they have Type 1 diabetes. If not diagnosed early enough, Type 1 diabetes can be fatal. Don't delay – if your child is experiencing any of the 4 Ts, visit your doctor immediately for a test.
